

Jerry Ford Taylor – BIO 2023

Ford Taylor is a leadership solutions trainer, strategist, and speaker.

With a primary emphasis on the people that serve an organization, while simultaneously maintaining a clear focus on the business or organization itself, Ford shares straight-forward practical solutions through authentic leadership training and individualized leadership consulting. With an empathetic intelligence derived from decades of experience with an array of people, personalities, and companies both large and small, Ford helps to both define and navigate leadership in the business culture of today.

His trainings and talks are centered around removing constraints, equipping leaders, and empowering people to become happy, successful, high performing individuals with healthy relationships both inside and outside of the workplace.

As a keynote speaker, Ford Taylor identifies and shares the tools and tactics to develop transformational leaders within every organization at every level. From mom and pop to multimillion dollar businesses, to churches, government, ministry, family and education leaders, Ford has learned many lessons and tested just as many tools as he shares with every single person he meets. In his understanding that many have learned to manage people, he takes his teaching, training, and equipping several steps further to show leaders how to lead people and how to manage the policies, processes, systems, and procedures around them.

Ford Taylor is the founder of FSH Strategy Consultants/Transform Lead. He is also founder and author of Transformational Leadership and “Relational Leadership” and directs a charitable international effort to provide Transformational Leadership to emerging countries worldwide.

Ford and his wife, Sandra, have been married since 1981, and live in the United States of America. They are the parents of three daughters named Whitney, Emily, and Quincy.
